Welcome to the Mark T. Wendell Tea Company’s 2020 Catalog

As one of the country’s oldest and storied tea importers, the Mark T. Wendell Tea Company has been providing fine teas to tea enthusiasts for over a century. We are pleased to offer a full range of estate grown specialty teas, signature tea blends, herbal and fruit tisanes, imported packaged tea brands, as well as a wide selection of uniquely crafted teapots and tea brewing accessories. Our philosophy is to select and purchase only the highest quality whole leaf teas from tea gardens and tea importers located around the world and to offer them to tea enthusiasts with a distinct focus on each customer’s satisfaction. The remarkable world of healthy and invigorating specialty teas has never been so accessible!

Importing our tea offerings over the past year has been challenging on several fronts, all unprecedented in recent memory. Our government’s implementation of an import tax on Chinese teas left us with varying price increases on not only teas from China, but many teas produced in other countries. There is no replacement for authentic Chinese teas, so we have tried to minimize these sharp price increases as best we can without sacrificing the quality that stands behind our brand.

New for 2020, our focus on quality and ingenuity has allowed us to represent two unique British tea brands as their US distributor. With fun flavors and eco-friendly packaging, the range of Hampstead Organic & Biodynamic Teas and We Are Tea offerings now spotlight our imported packaged brand selections.

Without our loyal customers, we would not have been able to continue offering our fine products for all these decades. If you are a returning customer, then we thank you. If you are a new customer, you will not be disappointed with our selection of teas. One taste and you will be back for more!

In 1904, Boston businessman Mark T. Wendell (shown above) assumed ownership of his uncle’s business, a firm that imported luxury products from abroad. With a degree from Harvard University just completed, Mr. Wendell settled in the Beacon Hill section of Boston and set up offices near State Street. One of his most popular imports was a smoky China tea that was simply called “XXX”. These three letters were a common symbol of excellence and high quality from this era.

Over time, Mr. Wendell began focusing solely on the import of tea into his Boston waterfront offices. He wanted his signature, smoky tea to stand out from other Chinese teas, so he changed its name to HU-KWA (1920’s era container shown above), in honor of the honorable Chinese merchant Houqua, with whom his uncle had traded.

Mark T. Wendell died in January of 1967 at the age of 85, after which Elliot H. Johnson and his brother Alan purchased the company, and in 1999 Elliot’s son, Hartley E. Johnson, joined the business. From an initial listing of only 5 teas, including the legendary Hu-Kwa, offerings have expanded to over 80 estate grown specialty teas, signature tea blends, and herbal & fruit tisanes. Additional product offerings include various imported packaged tea brands, tea brewing accessories and a wide range of varying styled teapots.

As the world of specialty tea has expanded over the past few decades, current owner, Hartley E. Johnson, has embraced the philosophy of offering tea enthusiasts a focused line of teas and brewing accessories. By offering a streamlined list of loose leaf teas, products can be turned over quickly, ensuring that only the freshest teas carry the Mark T. Wendell name.

For over 47 years, it has been the Johnson family’s goal to carry on Mr. Wendell’s tradition of creating a superior tea buying experience by providing customers with the finest product, competitive prices, a distinct focus on product freshness and superior service. The joys associated with the simplicity of a high-quality cup of tea are endless.
An Introduction to Tea

All tea comes from the tropical plant known as Camellia sinensis. The tea plant grows best in a warm climate with long sunlit days, cool nights and an abundance of rainfall. Tea plants grow at altitudes ranging from sea level to 7,000 feet and are indigenous to China, Tibet, and northern India, though they are cultivated in many other countries across the globe, including Sri Lanka, Japan, Kenya, Turkey, Indonesia, Vietnam, Argentina, Tanzania, Taiwan, Malawi, and Zimbabwe. The most complex teas grow at higher altitudes and many bushes can be cultivated for over 100 years. Tea bushes cover about six million acres of the earth and are harvested every week during the almost year-long growing season.

After each winter season, the first small leaves and buds of the tea bush are hand-plucked and harvested. Once exposed to air, the leaf will begin to wither. When the picked leaf becomes pliable, it can then be turned into different types of tea. A common misperception is that the various styles of tea are grown from different types of plants. The fact is that all styles of tea come from the same Camellia sinensis bush; however, the method in which they are processed varies, yielding the main classifications and varieties of tea. White, Green and Yellow tea are produced by steaming the leaves after plucking, thus eliminating the fermentation process. Oolong tea is allowed to oxidize for a short period of time, and Black tea is allowed to react with the air and oxidize, turning the green leaves black. Pu-erh tea is a style of black tea that has been piled and allowed to ferment considerably.

HU-KWA® Tea

One of Mr. Wendell’s first teas, HU-KWA is a uniquely crafted black tea from the island of Formosa and is considered by many tea connoisseurs to be the benchmark against which all other Lapsang Souchong style teas are measured. Offered by the Mark T. Wendell Tea Company for over a century, HU-KWA tea gains its distinctive flavor and smoky tang from the burning pine wood over which it is fired during the final drying process of the tea leaf. Distinctive with its smoky flavor and aroma, the dry leaves have an almost amber-brown coloration. When brewed, HU-KWA tea produces a deep red liquor and a surprisingly mellow cup. Since this tea is cultivated in varying terroir from the smoky Lapsang Souchong teas commonly produced in mainland China, it has a taste and character all its own. HU-KWA is a one of a kind tea that you will not forget!

In order to enjoy the unique flavor of HU-KWA we recommend allowing the tea to draw for five and one-half minutes. Stir, and let the tea settle for about one-half minute. Then decant. HU-KWA Tea is best appreciated when drunk clear. Milk or too much sugar compromises its delicate flavor. A little cream goes well but sugar should be used sparingly.

HOUQUA

The famous Hong Merchant of Canton, China, who became a symbol of integrity and quality trade between America and the Orient in the 19th century. Mark T. Wendell’s uncle, Richard Devens, traded goods with Houqua during this era and, years later, named his signature tea after him out of respect for his cultural significance. Black Teas

To produce black tea, the tea leaves are plucked by hand and then left out in the sun until they are pliable enough to be rolled without the leaf splitting. The leaves are then put into a mechanical tumbler and rolled. This process causes the leaves’ juices to react with the air and oxidize. The green leaves turn black and are then fired in huge drying ovens to produce the final product. Black tea is the most common tea consumed in this country and is cultivated in China, India, Sri Lanka, Africa and Indonesia.

Oolong Teas

Oolong tea is referred to as “semi-fermented” tea and is principally manufactured in China and Taiwan (Formosa). After plucking, this type of tea is allowed to wilt in direct sunlight and is then shaken in bamboo baskets to lightly bruise the leaf. The chemicals in the leaf react with the air, producing a reddish leaf color. After a desired amount of time, the leaf is fired and the fermentation process is halted. The variations in oxidation levels create the unique appearance and flavors of oolong teas.

Brandy Oolong  Made from a special cultivar of the tea plant unique to Taiwan, this offering is a highly oxidized oolong tea that was created by crossing the Assamica tea varietal with the native tea plant to produce a tea that has become the favorite for tea enthusiasts of every age. When brewed, Brandy Oolong’s rich and amber brew hints of spice, cinnamon and sweet-creamy malt notes.

Green Teas

To produce green tea, the fresh tea leaves are carefully placed on large bamboo trays and allowed to dry in the sunlight. The leaves are then placed into small hot roasting pans and quickly moved about. They are continuously rolled into balls and then re-roasted for several hours at a time. This process stops the chemical changes from occurring in the leaf by never allowing it to wither and ferment. By eliminating the fermentation process, the dry leaf retains its green color, natural goodness and original beauty. Most of the green teas produced come from various Chinese and Japanese tea estates. Light in color and flavor, green tea is loaded with health benefiting antioxidants.

Cloud & Mist Green This tea is a unique find, deriving its name from the high altitude growing areas of the Wu Lu Mountains in the Jiangxi province of China. Grown each spring in the gentle mountain clouds and prevalent mist, this tea consists of single bud and leaf sets that unfurl magnificently when brewed. The brewed liquor has a herbaceous aroma, a smooth and sweet taste and appears a modest yellow-green in the cup. Limited seasonal availability.

Yellow Tea

Yellow teas are unique to the high mountain regions of the Chinese provinces of Anhui, Hunan and Sichuan. The skillful tea pickers use only the tender Spring buds to produce this yellow tea. It is manufactured by plucking, basket-firing or pan-firing, smothering and then finish-firing the leaf. It is the smothering step that is unique to this tea, encouraging the leaf to reabsorb its own aromatics and add a sweetness and fragrance to the leaf.

Huo Shan Yellow Sprouting This rare yellow tea from China’s Anhui province is comprised of beautiful hand-crafted leaves and downy silver buds. This tea is notable for its rich, full and smooth tasting floral infusion. When brewed our Yellow Sprouting produces a naturally sweet and refreshingly clean tasting cup of tea.

- 6 ounce tin $40.00
- 2 ounce tin $14.00*

White Teas

White tea is the rarest and most delicate type of tea. It is plucked by hand within two days between the time the first buds become fully mature and the time in which the leaf unfurls. The leaves are then allowed to wither, allowing the natural moisture to evaporate before being dried. White tea contains the same antioxidants found in green tea, but since it undergoes less processing, white tea is believed to be more beneficial to your health than other types of tea.

China Mutan White Our Mutan white tea is an unusual tea, comprised of silvery, downy buds and green leaves. The buds are hand picked before the leaf opens, then gently steamed. The brew is delicate and mellow, with a light pale color. Due to the larger leaf size, more leaves per cup are needed when brewing.

- 6 ounce tin $28.00
- 3 ounce tin $18.00
- 1½ ounce tin $10.50*

Organic Flowery Silver Needle White This organic white tea is comprised of needle shaped tea buds with silvery white down on each grey-green leaf. It produces a light and refreshing cup when brewed.

- 6 ounce tin $48.00
- 3 ounce tin $27.50

The Tea with a History

Centuries ago, the taxation of tea in the American Colonies was one of the catalysts that helped spark the American War of Independence. Even though the tax on British controlled tea stocks was not a substantial amount per household, this was one of many taxes that occurred without proper consent over a span of several decades. Cries of “taxation without representation” engulfed the Colonies until there was no peaceful compromise to be realized. On December 16, 1773 a group of Colonial patriots disguised as Mohawk Indians boarded three English ships in Boston Harbor and threw the tea onboard into the water, in protest against the duty imposed on tea by the Government of King George III.

When the first Boston Tea Party was over, hundreds of tea chests were left floating in the frigid harbor waters. In the months that followed, many other seaports staged their own “Tea Parties”. On March 7, 1774, at a second Boston Tea Party, 16 chests of fine tea from tea merchants, Davison Newman & Co. Ltd. of London, were also dumped in the harbor in defiance of British policies. A replica copy of the original petition from Davison, Newman & Company to King George III, requesting compensation for their chests of tea thrown into Boston Harbour, can be obtained at www.BostonHarbourTea.com. Still in operation today, Britain’s oldest tea merchant has developed this famous tea blend and offers it exclusively through the Mark T. Wendell Tea Company.

How to Brew a Perfect Cup of Tea

Here are a few steadfast guidelines to follow in order to achieve the perfect cup:

1. Fill a kettle with freshly drawn cold water. We recommend filtered water as the quality of your water will affect the taste of your tea. Many towns have water that has too much chlorine and other minerals.

2. Measure tea carefully into your teapot or cup – use one rounded teaspoon or one tea bag for each 8oz. cup. A filter or “tea ball” should be used with loose tea.

3. Bring water to the desired temperature (rolling boil or just short of, variable by tea type). Do not allow it to boil too long, as it will result in a flat cup. Instant tea pots allow you to press a button and have it arrive at the right temperature!

4. Pour the water onto the leaves or tea bag. Do not pour the water and then add the tea, this will only result in a poor cup of tea. The differing types of tea should be infused for the specified number of minutes on the chart below.

5. If you prefer your tea stronger or weaker, increase or decrease the amount of tea (don’t brew it for longer). If it sits in the teapot, the tea can over-brew and turn bitter. Some green, oolong and white teas are good for multiple infusions – just add new hot water to the pot and increase the steeping time slightly. Repeat until the flavor starts to fade.

Tea Yield

New loose tea drinkers often wonder how many cups of brewed tea will be produced from various sized tins. Here is a good guideline to follow:

1 lb of loose tea will make approximately 160 cups
8 oz of loose tea will make approximately 80 cups
4 oz of loose tea will make approximately 40 cups
(All based upon one rounded teaspoon used for each cup.)

Please note that these are approximate readings. Some people often use more or less than a teaspoon of tea per cup, depending upon personal preference.
